Executive Summary

Background

In recent semesters, several students have enrolled in Environmental Systems Technology courses that did not declare a major in that field. In order to determine why these students enrolled in these courses, a short in-class survey was administered to students in Environmental Systems Technology courses during the Winter and Spring semesters of 2002.

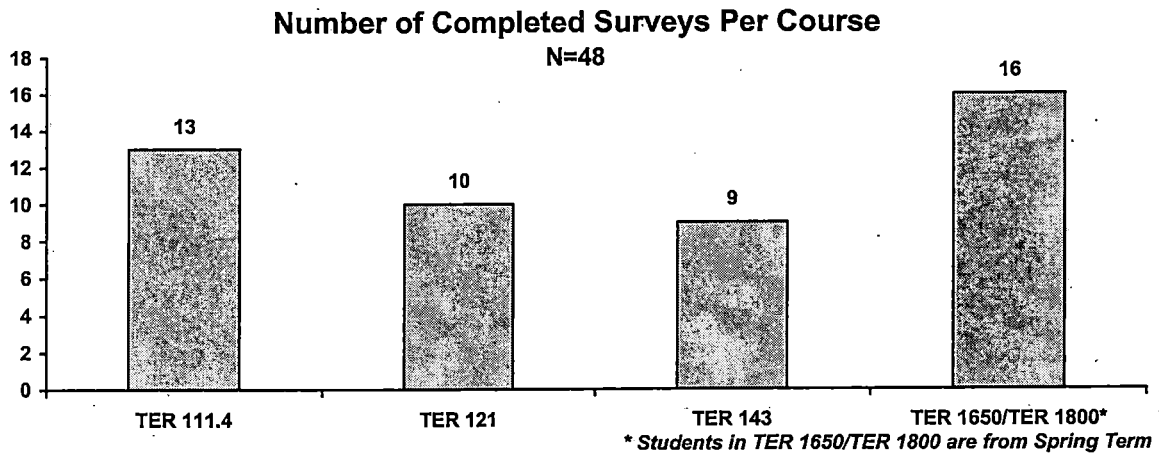

Key Findings

- According to the survey, 41.7% of students in Environmental Systems Technology courses do not intend to pursue a degree or certificate in that field from OCC.
- The most popular Environmental Systems Technology program among respondents was the Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning, and Refrigeration option, with 39.6% of students in this program. The second most popular was the Advanced Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning, and Refrigeration Option (16.7%).
 - Degree/certificate-seekers were more often enrolled in the advanced option. Twenty-five percent of students seeking a degree or certificate were enrolled in the Advanced Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning, and Refrigeration option, compare to only 5% of students not seeking a degree or certificate.
- Twenty-five percent (25.0%), of students took courses to increase their knowledge in a specific area of Environmental Systems Technology, and 20.8% took courses because their employer encouraged them to do so.
- Overall, 58.3% of students plan to use the knowledge they have gained in the course in their current job. Among those not seeking a degree, 70.0% plan to use their newly-acquired skills and knowledge in their current job.
- Thirty-six percent (36.2%) of Environmental Systems Technology students learned about the courses from a college publication, such as a catalog or course schedule. Another 27.7% learned about the course from their employer and 27.7% learned about it from a family member or friend.
 - Students seeking a degree or certificate were more likely to learn about courses from an OCC publication, while those seeking neither a degree nor a certificate were more likely to learn about courses via word-of-mouth from an employer or friend/family member.
 - Fifty-six percent (55.6%) of degree seekers learned about courses from an OCC publication, compared to only 25.0% of students seeking neither a certificate nor degree. Among non-degree/certificate seekers, the primary ways they learned about courses were via employer (35.0%) and family/friend (30.0%).

- Nearly all (97.8%) of Environmental Systems students were employed full time. One student was employed on a part-time basis, and none of the students were unemployed.
 - Two-thirds (66.7%) of these students were employed in positions that were highly related to the Environmental Systems Technology field. Another 20.0% were employed in jobs that were somewhat related to the industry.
 - Among those seeking neither a degree nor certificate, all had jobs that were somewhat or highly related to Environmental Systems Technology. Degree/certificate-seekers were more often employed in positions unrelated to the industry, with 23.1% having jobs outside of the industry.
- The demographic profile of Environmental Systems Technology students is as follows:
 - Gender: Male (100.0%)
 - Age: Mean Age - 34.2 years; Median Age - 35 years
 - Race: White (89.1%); African American (2.2%); Hispanic (2.2%); Other (6.5%)
 - Educational Attainment: Some college (57.4%); High school diploma (19.1%)
- Overall, 59.6% of students plan to obtain a degree or certificate in Environmental Systems Technology over the next five years, and 34.0% plan to take a few more courses in Environmental Systems Technology.
 - Among students who do not intend to obtain a degree/certificate from OCC, 60% plan to take a few more courses in Environmental Systems Technology.

Table 1: Completed Surveys Per Course

Summary: Forty-eight (48) surveys were completed by students in Environmental Systems Technology courses. The courses represented included TER 1650, TER 1800, TER 111.4, TER 121, and TER 143. The data from the TER 1650 and 1800 courses were from the Spring term.

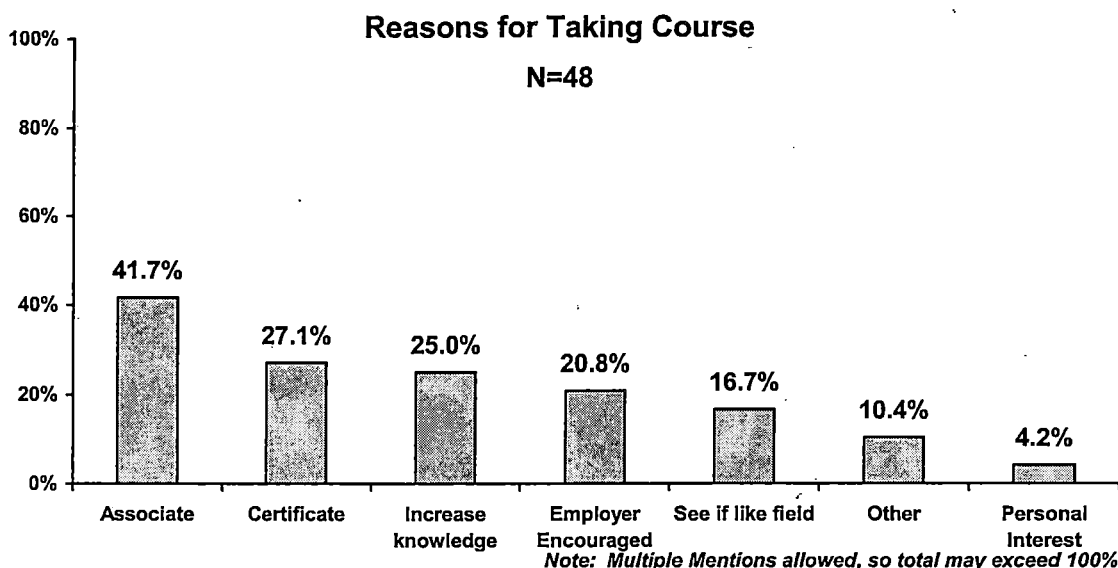

Table 2: Program

Summary: The Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Option was the most popular option, with 39.6% of respondents enrolled in this option, followed by the Advanced Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Option, with 16.7%. Ten percent (10.4%) of students surveyed were not enrolled in any of the Environmental Services Technology programs.

| Program of Study | Winter 2002 | Spring 2002 |
|---|-------------|-------------|
| Base (n) | 32 | 16 |
| Air Conditioning | 3.1% | 18.8% |
| Heating | 0.0 | 0.0 |
| Refrigeration | 18.8 | 6.3 |
| Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning, and Refrigeration Option | 43.8 | 31.3 |
| Advanced Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning, and Refrigeration Option | 15.6 | 18.8 |
| Facilities Management Option | 6.3 | 12.5 |
| Special Interest Option | 3.1 | 0.0 |
| Not enrolled in one of the EST programs | 9.4 | 0.0 |

Table 3: Reasons For Taking Courses

Summary: Forty-two percent (41.7%) of students in the courses were seeking an Associate Degree in Environmental Systems Technology, and 27.1% were pursuing a certificate. One-fourth of students were taking the course to increase their knowledge in a specific area of Environmental Systems Technology, and 20.8% took the course because their employers encouraged them to do so. Only two students took the course for personal interest.

Of the five students that cited other reasons for taking the courses, two indicated that they took the course in order to advance in their career. The other three reasons cited for taking the course included "to increase earnings", "Multi-Skilled Manufacturing Technology program", and "to take over a business."

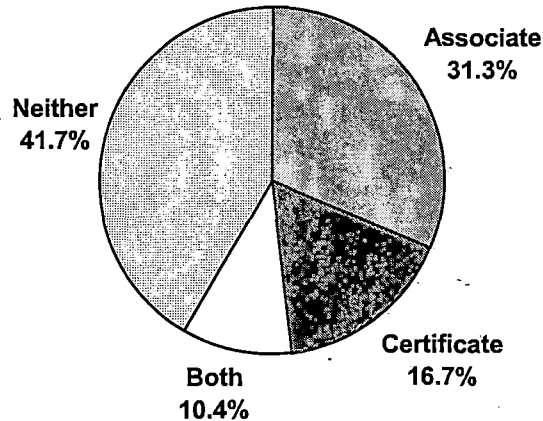

| | Winter 2002 | Spring 2002 |

| See if like the field | 15.6 | 18.8 |
| Personal Interest | 3.1 | 6.3 |
| Other | 15.6* | 0.0* |

* Statistically significant difference between Winter 2002 and Spring 2002 at a 95% level of significance.

Summary: Students who took Spring Environmental Systems courses were more likely to say cite "increase knowledge in a specific area" as a reason for taking the course, and were less likely to cite other reasons for taking the course.

Table 4: Educational Intent

Educational Intent (N=48)

Summary: Based upon the reasons given for taking the course, 41.7% of Environmental Systems students surveyed did not intend to obtain a certificate or degree in Environmental Systems technology. Thirty-one percent (31.3%) planned to obtain an associate degree and 16.7% were pursuing a certificate. Another 10.4% plan to obtain both an associate degree and a certificate.

| Educational Intent | Winter 2002 | Spring 2002 |
|--|-------------|-------------|
| N | 32 | 16 |
| Associate Degree in Environmental Sys. Tech. | 25.0% | 43.8% |
| Certificate in Environmental Sys. Tech. | 18.8 | 12.5 |
| Both a degree and certificate | 12.5 | 6.3 |
| Neither a degree nor certificate | 43.8 | 37.5 |

Summary: There were no statistically significant differences in educational intent when comparing students attending during the winter term to those attending in the spring.

Due to small samples sizes, those pursuing an associate degree, certificate, or both have been merged into one category in the remaining tables.

 Statistically significant difference between those seeking degree/cert. and those not seeking degree/cert. at 95% level of confidence.*

Summary: Compared to students seeking neither a degree nor certificate, there were more degree/certificate seekers in the Advanced Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning, and Refrigeration Option.

Table 5: How Students Planned To Use Knowledge And Skills Gained In Course

In what way will you use the knowledge/skills gained in this course? (n=48)

Summary: More than half (58.3%) of students planned to use the knowledge and skills they have gained in their current jobs. One-third planned to use their newly acquired skills in a new job with a different employer, and one-fourth planned to use these skills for self-employment.

| | Not seeking degree or certificate | Seeking Certificate and/or Degree |
