5-79

LANSING, Ill. — The East Holmes Road Church of Christ in Lansing recently secured the services of Alfred A. Reeves as the local evangelist. Reeves is a former student at Freed-Hardeman College in Henderson, Tenn., and comes to Lansing from Selmer, Tenn.

The East Holmes Road church has approximately 185 attendance and is served by three elders and four deacons. The budget calls for $550 weekly.

Currently the Christian Chronicle is being sent into each member's home in addition to the Christian Bible Teacher going into every teacher's home.

The congregation is supporting the Negro congregation in Lansing by paying the monthly rent on their meeting house and partially supporting the local Negro evangelist. The elders are currently seeking a qualified and capable Negro preacher who is willing to work at secular employment to help support himself and work with the Negro brethren.

In addition to current aid to various benevolent institutions, the elders have approved an inaugurated a threefold church work program.

Reeves will direct the efforts and attempt to revitalize the congregation with a dynamic educational, personal work, and benevolent work program.
